
Anniversary Dance

Posted by Swee - 2008/06/11 18:45

Anniversary Dance

On our second year anniversary my husband had a big surprise for me. He told me to wear my boots and jeans (we live in Texas). I thought we were going out dancing, not what I had in mind for our anniversary. First, he took me to eat at my favorite seafood restaurant. After dinner we left the restaurant and I noticed he was driving back to our house. At that point I was kind of disappointed. He took me to our front door and told me to wait there. He went through our back door to "get ready." When he opened the door, our wedding song came on. We have wood floors in our living room. He had taken all the furniture and put mini white Christmas lights and candles around the entire room. We danced to our song. It was the most romantic thing he has ever done for me.

=====